During the second half of 1947, the "Agitprop" (Agitations- und Propagandaabteilung) of the SED in Dresden intends to start a sizeable campaign in favor of transferring all privately-owned urban real estate to state ownership. Such socialization will be presented to the public as an advisable and fitting counterpart to the land reform. "Agitprop" hopes that trade and renters' unions will make a "spontaneous" demand for such a transfer.
